A paragraph in the report of the Finance Commission which was lost sight of in the hurried consideration of the document by the newspapers is causing a lot of satisfaction in Mayor Gibbard's office. The Finance Commission declares that the administration has saved $1,000,000 in 1908 over 1907 without loss of efficiency.

Is that what the report says?

Small dance dances are rapidly growing in favor with society, and this winter a large ball at fashionable location has been the exception rather than the rule as a winter dance. Nearly every society has its own ballroom, and the smaller dances, preceding a dinner, are generally a fashionable feature of the winter. One of the largest and most brilliant of the winter dances to take place the coming week is that which Mrs. Stanton Thayer is giving at her Fairfield street home next Monday evening in honor of her daughter, Miss Sally Thayer. Mrs. Thayer, who has recently been visiting her father, Countess of Warwick, at his residence in London, is a member of the White House in Washington, and is a member of the White House in Washington, and is a member of the White House in Washington.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN'S MAGAZINE

THE LIGHT OF WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE

By DOROTHY DIX

If you want to see what would be the effect of giving women the ballot, study the accompanying picture. The artist has visualized with his pencil more freely than any words can, what women would do if they had an equal right with men in making the laws that control the conditions under which we all men and women alike must live.

Women at the polls will turn the light on the dark places of society; they will illuminate the world with justice, benevolence, humanity, but above all, with love, purity and kindness.

Man's Position Inconsistent.

Man's position is inconsistent. It is for him to attribute the great moral force of life to woman's influence, and then say he has a chance to exert that influence in the most effective way.

Home and Country Indivisible.

If politicians graft, if trusts graft, if the tariff is raised, if justice comes, there is no home so little or so humble that it does not suffer.

THE LAMENT OF MR. TAFT

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

Oh! Philippines, dear Philippines, where I was wont to roam,

Where Fashion's smile approved the style affected by Salome,

Where holies dashed and bullets crashed about my quiver's frame,

And in my dream I saw the gleams of snickerdoodles and spars;

With all the woes, and all the clothes they people do not wear.

I still recall that, after all, there was no 'possum there!

Oh! 'possum! 'possum! 'possum!

Everywhere I've gone to get to bed,

It's 'possum rusted, or broiled on toast,

Or scrambled 'possum meat.

I loathe 'em, still they say:

"Please pass the 'possum up to Taft!"

Three times a day!

I sigh for midnight rots and loams, for mangan overripe,

For shored homelock breakfast chips; I even sigh for trips!

I'd love to taste of army beef; I think with tears of hash;

I wish I knew where garlic stew could be procured for cash.

I'd like to steal a quiet noon in some 'ham-and-reveal;

But always it is, "Here comes Taft; get out the 'possum meat!"

Oh! 'possum! 'possum! 'possum!

Everywhere I go to dine,

And I must snail with soup, the white,

And sugar that is like a lime!

I'll choke to death 'ere March comes round;

But still my dear friends say:

"Please pass the 'possum up to Taft!"

Three times each day!

When Lovers Disagree

The Spinster Lady as a Mender of Broken Hearts

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The Spinster Lady stood in front of the fireplace, gazing absently at the glowing coals.

On the mantel stood a little ivory

impudent little smile.

"You naughty, naughty boy!" she claimed, "I believe you are actually laughing at me, which is most un-considering all the trouble you are giving me just at present."

She what particular love affair are you engaged just at present?" said a laughing voice.

The Spinster Lady turned quickly, then said in a chair, "Oh, you, you, you, it is a relief to hear you say that. I was one of those foolish children back again."

"What about children?" said her brother friend, "I am not a mind reader, my dear, but I can be a 'peep-hole' journal,"

Margaret said.

"Fannie and Rose. This is the third time they have gone off to sea in arm-

like two turtles dove."

"Why, they are going to be married in two weeks, aren't they? What is the reason they are fighting about?"

"Oh, the silly things you can imagine. Principally, however, the furnishing of their apartment."

"What seems to be the trouble?"

"Their tastes differ, it seems. Rose wants a green room, and Charlie wants their work."

"That's very true," said the friend

thoughtfully. "Just look at the M—"

Under modern conditions society must register its lessons quickly
 ■ let them slip.

Then, too, we insist that the installation of SUBMARINE SIGNAL BELLS should be made legally mandatory.

Finally, let us take to heart the humiliating fact that all of the passenger steamers concerned in this international episode were of foreign registration.

Where is the American merchant marine that we could draw upon for naval auxiliaries in time of war?

Though not expecting death as it came, the men whose lives were sacrificed made Cuba free!

Princed made Cuba free!

And not only was Cuba freed, but, by act of Congress, the United States became pledged to Cuban independence, and now, for the second time, it has relinquished the island to a government chosen by the Cuban electorate.

Thus the wreck of the Maine and the ceremonies in honor of which a new and more powerful battleship Maine fired salvos of artillery, taken together, are an impressive lesson of the power of the United States and its magnanimity, ITS DEFENCE OF ITS RIGHTS AND ITS FAITHFULNESS TO ITS PLEDGES.

If this wreck in Havana Harbor should be removed there should rise in its place some monumental emblem of its great meaning.

Rather can Spain forget the Maine than Cuba fail to remember it.

spirits, in the stress of the great disaster, conquered the fears of all the rest!

For in every emergency where many are concerned the crowd turns to hysteria or to exalted strength through a silent spiritual balancing of accounts that sifts out the hearts, assesses the valor of souls and FIXES THE TYPE THAT SHALL PREVAIL.

It is plain that in the case of the women of the Republic the prevailing type was that of a splendid modern kind of womanliness with steady nerves subdued to reason and tempered will.

There was no wailing or wringing of hands in the shrouding darkness when the blow was struck. Deft, helpful action everywhere—through a long-drawn drama of shocking, discomforting and dangerous experience.

Waiting through the creeping hours in the cold and gloom, swinging down from the davits into the sickening surge, traversing the perilous distances from ship to ship and mounting the dizzy, swaying ladders—American women, old and young, well and ill—it was a remarkable and memorable achievement!

THE AMERICAN MAN SALUTES THE AMERICAN WOMAN.
